

Boston Seminar on Modern American Society and Culture

Sponsored and hosted by the Massachusetts Historical Society, 1154 Boylston Street, Boston

- September 25 2018 Radical Nonviolence and Interracial Utopias in the early Civil Rights Movement
Victoria Wolcott, University of Buffalo, SUNY
Comment: Jason Sokol, University of New Hampshire
- October 30 2018 Governing the 'Black Power' City: Leon H. Sullivan, Opportunities Industrialization Centers Inc., and the Rise of Black Empowerment
Jessica Ann Levy, Johns Hopkins University
Comment: Julia Rabig, Dartmouth College
- November 27 2018 Separating Residences in the Camel City
Elizabeth Herbin-Triant, University of Massachusetts Lowell
Comment: Kenneth W. Mack, Harvard Law School
- January 29 2019 Better Teaching through Technology, 1945-1969
Victoria Cain, Northeastern University
Comment: Heather Hendershot, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
- February 26 2019 Our Own Orient: Mecca, California and Dates
Eleanor Daly Finnegan, Harvard University
Comment: Laura Barraclough, Yale University
- March 26 2019 Panel: Carceral Culture
Melanie D. Newport, University of Connecticut—Hartford, and Morgan Jane Shahan, Johns Hopkins University
Comment: Elizabeth Hinton, Harvard University
- April 23 2019 Boston's North End: Post-World War II Italian Immigration, Segmented Assimilation, and the "Problem of Cornerville"
James Pasto, Boston University
Comment: Marilyn Johnson, Boston College

Tuesdays at 5:15 PM. A light supper follows. Attendance is free. Subscriptions are available ($25 per year) for online access to the pre-circulated essays in 4 series. RSVP to seminars@masshist.org. Follow us on Twitter: @MHS_Research.

Other seminar series will feature items of interest, including a panels on transgender history in the archives, feminist economics, and the long 19th amendment in our series on the history of women, gender, & sexuality, and sessions in our environmental history series.

Visit www.masshist.org/research/seminars to learn more.